

Yanks Battle Japs Hand-to-Hand on Solomons

When tough jobs come along, the United States Marines always have been on hand as the spearhead of the attack. Latest news is that the Marines are participating in the landing of United Nations forces on the Jap-held Solomon Islands. These official U. S. Marine Corps photos, just released, were taken only recently on a South Seas Island as Marines rehearsed landing operations, and these men now may be carrying on the same operations in earnest as part of the Allied attacking forces.

By MURLIN SPENCER
GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, August 12—(AP)—Jungle-hardened American Marines battled on today in hand-to-hand clashes to broaden hard-won footholds in the Solomon Islands while supporting Allied airmen struck new blows upon Jap bases and shipping along a 3,000-odd mile front.

The Leathernecks' progress was hidden in official silence but the latest information, issued in Washington, was that operations were continuing in the area of Tulagi, two-mile-long island in the southeastern Solomons.

More definite word was not expected until a let-up in the operations permits Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley, Allied commander in the South Pacific who is in charge of the offensive to send a detailed account over his now limited communications.

But whatever the situation, the U. S. Navy, in a statement in Washington, hailed the landing of the Marines on the shores of Tulagi as having "opened the doors to an Allied offensive in the South Pacific."

From this it was taken that the land, sea and air assault which began five days ago was making headway.

General MacArthur's headquarters, still silent on the main operation, told of the fourth air attack within as many days upon Rabaul, big Jap base on New Britain; destruction of two and possibly five Jap Zero fighters over New Guinea; another raid on Jap ships south of Timor, Dutch East Indies; and an attack upon the Kei Islands.

(In the Aleutians attack begun by navy surface craft last Saturday and continued the next day by naval bombers, guns of cruisers and destroyers knocked out shore batteries, set fires and caused heavy damage in the invaders' camp area on Kiska island, and shelled a group of ships, the navy said.)

(This attack, timed simultaneously with the offensive in the Solomons, left at least two enemy ships damaged and a third sunk, making a total of 21 vessels knocked out since the Japanese made their appearance in the Aleutians.)

Convoy Battle Rages in Mediterranean

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 12—(AP)—DNB, official German news agency, said today that since last evening German and Italian air and submarine forces have been engaged in a new battle against a British "capital convoy," escorted in the western Mediterranean by the bulk of the British Mediterranean fleet.

THREE CENTS

PARRETT NOMINATED FOR COMMISSIONER

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Worthy of special note is a practical demonstration of what can be accomplished when a real effort is made, in which a former Washington C. H. young man played an important role.

This week friends here learned from T. E. Maddox, manager of the J. C. Penney Company store at Jackson, Tenn., what that store had recently achieved in the way of a record in the sale of U. S. War Bonds and Stamps.

Maddox, who is the son of Mrs. Thomas Maddox here and a brother of Attorney Ray Maddox, is well remembered as an alert and progressive young man who started his sales career in the former Tharp clothing store on Court Street here and later was identified with the Craig Brothers store, before joining the J. C. Penney organization. He has been declared highly successful in his management of the Jackson, Tennessee store.

Deciding to make his store really "go to town" in the July War Bond drive he reported sales in his store of $40,972.90 in bonds and stamps for one month during which there was a contest and campaign among the Penney stores throughout the country in which bond and stamp prizes to the amount of $7,500 were offered. His store exceeded its quota 100 percent. Penney Company stores over the country sold over $4,000,000 in stamps and bonds during July.

Pictures of attractive window and sales displays featuring bonds and stamps in the Jackson store were sent to a friend here.

It was apparent that they did not belong here—or if they did they had been smitten so hard by Dan Cupid that they were totally oblivious to all surroundings, in fact I guess this was the case wherever they belonged.

They were attracting more attention than they had been Taran and his mate who had just landed in town from the jungles.

Neither spoke a word as they wended their way slowly down the street, and neither paid any attention to the dozens of persons who stopped and looked after them with broad grins to indicate their understanding and amusement.

The last I saw of them the tall young man with his big strong arm about her tiny waist, and the blonde girl with her little arm about her boy friend were still walking slowly, as if in a trance, apparently headed for nowhere in particular except in the seventh heaven of their dreams!

CLARK GABLE TO ENLIST IN AIR CORPS AS PRIVATE TO BE REGULAR SOLDIER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12—(AP)—Clark Gable, who needs no other introduction, was due to enlist in the U. S. Army—as a buck private.

The place: Somewhere in this immediate vicinity. The time: 2 P. M. Pacific War Time. The reason:

"He doesn't want to sell bonds or pour pink tea. He wants to be a regular soldier."

Gable, 41, it was said, will enlist in the army air forces. After undergoing basic training, he hopes to go into the officers' training school at Miami, Fla.

"He wants to be an aerial gunner," said an officer. Gable is a crack shot.

PRE-WAR VIEWS ARE IGNORED BY SOME OF VOTERS

Rep. Hamilton Fish, Bitter Critic of President, Is Renominated by GOP

HOT FIGHT IN NEW YORK

In Idaho, Sen. John Thomas, Pre-War Administration Foe, Has Long Lead

(By the Associated Press)
Pre-war foreign views as a general political issue were discussed in at least four of five states today as primary returns gave a wide majority of officeholders victories over opponents who had assailed them as isolationists.

Example number one in national interest was the veteran representative Hamilton Fish, pre-Pearl Harbor critic of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, who won Republican nomination in the President's home district over three opponents in yesterday's balloting.

Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee who had joined with Fish's intra-party opponents, asserted in commenting on the congressman's lead that "for the sake of both the country and of the Republican party the fight for his elimination must be continued."

Renominated three to one, Fish observed that "these pre-war issues were sunk at Pearl Harbor and every fair-minded American knows it and resents attempts to revive them."

Other New York congressmen who weathered the cry of before-the-war-isolationism included representatives Edwin A. Hall, Binghamton Republican; Daniel A. Reed, western New York Republican; Vito Marcantonio, American labor party left wing leader, and three New York City Democrats, William B. Harry, James A. O'Leary and Martin J. Kennedy.

But in Nebraska, representative

McSweeney Nominated To Run Against Bricker

Fiery Isolationist, Martin L. Sweeney, Only One of State's Congressmen Who Is Not Renominated at Tuesday Party Primaries—Paul M. Herbert and George Nye To Make Race for Lieutenant Governor in November and Thomas J. Herbert and Herbert S. Duffy Are Candidates for Attorney General

(By The Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Aug. 12—Ohio Democrats picked soft-spoken John McSweeney of Wooster in Tuesday's primary to oppose Republican Gov. John W. Bricker's third term bid, as voters renominated all but one of the state's congressmen.

A strong Roosevelt administration supporter, McSweeney won in a field of five after a tight battle with State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who conceded defeat at 5:07 A. M. today—then walked from his State House office to McSweeney's Neil House headquarters to extend congratulations.

Returns from 8,410 of Ohio's 8,653 precincts in the Associated Press tabulation showed: McSweeney 114,277; Ferguson 100,054; Clarence H. Knisley 43,519;

Walter F. Heer 39,789; and Frank Dye 12,237.

Former Congressman McSweeney, 51, making his first try for governor, did little campaigning but beat Ferguson's personal organization and candidates backed by Metropolitan County "bosses" and former Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Bricker, unopposed for renomination, polled 339,293 votes in 8,645 precincts, secretary of state returns showed.

Martin L. Sweeney, Cleveland Democrat and 20th district representative for 12 years, was the only incumbent congressman beaten. He lost to Michael A. Feighan, who attacked what he termed Sweeney's "isolationist" stand.

Theirs was the bitterest battle of three Ohio congressional contests in which "isolationism" was the chief issue. Two Republicans,

Scion of Wealth Near Death In Detroit Jail after Being Picked Up Prying Up Window

DETROIT, Aug. 12—(AP)—John Duval Dodge, 43, son of the late automotive manufacturer John F. Dodge, collapsed and was taken to receiving hospital in an unconscious condition after his arrest at 3:30 A. M. for investigation.

After an examination, Dr. Donald M. Morrill, hospital superintendent, said Dodge was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage and "may not live through the day."

Chief assistant prosecutor Julian G. McIntosh who investigated Dodge's arrest said he was informed that Dodge, while sitting on the floor of a district police station, suddenly threw himself backward, his head striking the floor.

Patrolmen Alfred Arman and Lee Brown said they took Dodge into custody after answering a call from a woman on Detroit's East Side near Belle Island who reported she saw a man pry a screen from the window of a nearby residence.

Taken to a district police station, Dodge collapsed.

John Duval Dodge, eldest son of the millionaire auto magnate, was left only $150 a month for life in the will of John F. Dodge, who died in 1920. He waived this monthly provision by accepting a $1,700,000 settlement offered by the other heirs. Years later he sought by court action to obtain a larger share of the Dodge millions, his latest attempt being rejected by the Michigan supreme court last February.

AP CORRESPONDENT MISSING IN ACTION

Vern Haughland in Plane That Fails to Return

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 12—(AP)—Vern Haughland, associated press staff man, was listed as missing today five days after a plane in which he was a passenger disappeared in a storm. The plane was en route from northeast Australia to the New Guinea war front.

There still was hope that the plane might have made an emergency landing at some inaccessible spot in New Guinea or on one of the islets off Australia. It was recalled here that several airmen who have been shot down or forced down over New Guinea have taken weeks to make their way back to civilization.

Haughland is the second associated press correspondent missing as a result of the Pacific war.

D. Witt Hancock, 33, a native of Bluefield, W. Va., has not been heard from since March 3, when he was attempting to escape from the Japanese advance in Java.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—(AP)—The United States spent $4,794,000,000 for war purposes last month—$107,392 a minute.

The July total, announced yesterday by the Office of War Information, brought war spending from June 1940 through last July to $39,559,000,000 in disbursements by the treasury, and expenditures by the reconstruction finance corporation and its subsidiaries.

PAXSON CHOICE OF GOP FOR NEXT REPRESENTATIVE

No Local Contests Among Democrats at Primary Election in County

LIGHTEST VOTE IN YEARS

Glass Gives Parrett Stiff Competition but Paxson Wins in a Romp

The Republican voters of Fayette County, on the basis of complete and official returns on Tuesday's primary election, nominated Thomas H. Parrett as their candidate for county commissioner to run against Warren Huchison, unopposed for the Democratic nomination, in the forthcoming general election in November.

And, they picked W. Stanley Paxson out of a field of five aspirants as their candidate, to run against Loren D. Hynes, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for representative to the state legislature.

The race between Parrett and D. V. Glass, seeking reelection, was nip and tuck from the start and was not decided until the votes of the last of the county's 44 precincts had been counted. J. Edmund Smith, who like Parrett, was a newcomer into the field of politics, and the third man in the race, had a 50-vote plurality in the city where he lives, but was swamped in the rural sections of the county. The official vote was: Parrett, 714; Glass, 695 and Smith 525.

Paxson won the nomination for representative in a romp. After the first half dozen precincts had reported, it was not a question of who would be nominated but rather one of how wide a margin Paxson would have. The only competition in this particular race was between Virgil Perrill and Webster C. French for the runner-up place. Perrill held the edge at the end with 475 votes to 450 for French. Captain John F. Otis, with 83, and Rev. Charles J. Bowen of Good Hope, with 89, completed the field.

These were the only two contests for county offices on the Republican ticket and held the center of interest.

There was no local contests among the Democrats.

With this lack of competition,

Fierce Fighting Put Up By Reds For Oil Fields

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 12—(AP)—Russian troops withdrew grudgingly, and fighting furiously, into the wild lands of the Caucasian foothills today as the German army lunged on between the Black and Caspian seas—its greatest prizes still ahead.

German columns were moving westward, almost within gunshot of the Black Sea naval stations of Novorossisk and Tuapse, and southeastward toward the rich oil fields of Grozny and the Caspian Sea beyond.

The Germans confronted the battered Russians at Krasnodar with numerically superior forces and launched attack after attack, today's mid-day communique said. Krasnodar is the main obstacle on the road to Novorossisk.

"The Germans are trying at all costs to cross to the southern bank of a river," the mid-day communique said. More than 1,000 Germans were killed and 12 tanks destroyed in this effort, the Russians said.

RIOTS IN INDIA GET NO BETTER

More Troops Called To Duty By British to Put Curb On Gandhi Revolt

BOMBAY, Aug. 12—(AP)—The British called increasing numbers of troops and police into action today to cope with spreading violence and it became a question how long martial law could be forestalled in turbulent India.

The worst new trouble spot was New Delhi where an official statement described the situation as "ugly" and said an Indian mob had burned and virtually destroyed the town hall and troops had fired on civilian crowds yesterday.

Since the terror began as the sequel to the arrest of Mohandas K. Gandhi and other Hindu leaders after the All-India congress party made him generalissimo of a planned non-violent campaign to break British rule, 500 or more Indians have been made prisoners.

Armed security forces have opened fire on milling throngs in at least eight places across India; the wreckage of burned buildings, smashed glass and overturned vehicles has piled up, and a paralysis has begun to grip the teeming sub-continent's trade.

WHITE SLAVER NABBED

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—(AP)—The federal bureau of investigation announced yesterday the arrest of Richard Ralph Miller, 31, of Dayton, on a charge of being a fugitive from a white slave indictment in Steubenville, in 1940.

ESPIONAGE CHARGES DENIED BY PREACHER

Rev. Kurt Motzahn on Stand In Philadelphia Trial

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 12—(AP)—The Rev. Kurt E. B. Motzahn, Philadelphia clergyman, denied in federal court that he was involved in espionage against the United States.

Taking the stand late yesterday to defend himself against a charge of conspiring to furnish military information to the Axis, the stout, dark-haired accused insisted that he had never been a Nazi and that he was against the Bund.

Mr. Motzahn, who followed his attractive wife on the stand, gave details of his theological education in Germany, his world war service with the German Cavalry and his arrival in the United States in 1924 before he was ex-cused until today.

Nazi Machine Factories In Rhineland Blasted

LONDON, Aug. 12—(AP)—Mainz, German chemical industry and rail center on the Rhine, was heavily attacked last night by the RAF in a raid which was "particularly successful" and left fires still raging this morning, the air ministry announced today.

Sixteen bombers were missing, indicating a strong force participated. (If previous losses of 4 to 5 percent of the attackers is used as a basis, the number involved would be up to 400.)

Goblitz, docks at Le Harve and air fields in the low countries also were attacked.

Mainz is the center of important Nazi machinery and chemical works. It was the fourth raid on Mainz. The last was November 28, 1940.

The raid followed a one-night, weather-enforced gap in the RAF offensive against Germany. German nuisance raiders bombed points on the south coast of England and in the midlands. One German bomber was destroyed.

Indian Leader in U. S. Has Formula He Says Will End India's Riots

(Wide World News Service)

The revolt in India which started as a passive affair has grown to that grim stage where it has become an active menace to the Allied cause.

Mohandas Gandhi's campaign of non-violence to achieve freedom is so far out of hand that many cities are swept with the fearsome sound of mob roar.

What's needed is a basis for compromise. In New York Sirder Kumar J. J. Singh, president of the India League of America and former member of the All-India Congress committee, has a new plan. He said it would be acceptable to the All-India Congress. Here's the plan:

"Executive power now rests with the governor-general-in-council. Four members of the council are British and 11 are Indian, all of them appointed and what you in America call stooges.

"My suggestion is let five seats be given to the All-India Congress; give an equal number of seats to the Moslem League and let the viceroy himself pick five other members.

"There would be absolutely no constitutional change until after the war. The viceroy would remain as governor general with powers similar to those exercised in Canada.

"The status of the some 560 Indian princes would remain unchanged until after the war. However, the United Nations must guarantee complete freedom for India after the war.

"The Indians are prepared to leave military defense to an allied war council."

PARRETT IS NOMINATED FOR COMMISSIONER AND PAXSON REPRESENTATIVE

plus a preoccupation with the war, this was the lightest primary the last general election.

The selection of candidates vote in recent years. That was as political observers had predicted. The Democrats, without a single local contest to whet their interest, stayed away from the polls in droves. The Republicans were steamed up to but mild enthusiasm by their two races—for commissioner and representative—and turned out a little better, but at that, the Republican vote of 1933 top was only about half as heavy as in the last primary two years ago when 3,918 votes were cast in the selection of a candidate for commissioner, and less than one-third as heavy as in the 1940 general election when Governor John W. Bricker was given 6,422 votes.

Only 707 Democrats voted in this year's primary compared to 1,789 in the primary two years ago and 5,251 (for Roosevelt) in this year cost approximately $1.25 per vote on the basis of complete unofficial returns. There were an estimated 2,540 votes cast and the county spent approximately $3,276 to hold the election.

Fayette County Democrats, in the only contests they had, gave R. M. Winegardner, a Washington C. H. attorney, 360 votes to 141 for George D. Nye, Waverly attorney, for lieutenant governor.

Clarence H. Knisley was their choice for candidate for governor to oppose Gov. Bricker in the November election and Herbert S. Duffey for attorney general. George H. Smith was given a 273 to 114 edge over Carl H. Ehl for the nomination for congressman to run against Rep. Clarence J. Brown in the fall.

Fayette County Republicans favored Edward J. Hummel for the candidate for secretary of state in the only state contest of consequence.

Although many of the candidates received their nominations without opposition, they all were given substantial complimentary votes which political observers view as "straws in the wind" in making their guesses on the outcome of the general election in November.

This is the way Fayette County voters voted in selecting the candidates and expressing their views on unopposed aspirants for public office.

RETAIL SALES TAX IS URGED BY C. OF C.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(P)

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, describing the new Revenue Bill now before Congress as a failure, today proposed a flat retail sales tax of 10 percent and a 5 percent withholding tax in addition to income tax.

The Chamber submitted a program to the Senate Finance committee which, it said, would raise $12,000,000,000 in new revenue for war purposes, as contrasted with the $6,271,000,000 provided for in the measure under consideration. This would be in addition to the $17,000,000,000 which it said was produced by present taxes.

'Boy Manager' of Indians Signed Up for Next Year

By RAY BLOSSER
CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Baseball's "Boy Manager" Lou Boudreau has made good with Alva Bradley, known to the trade as a tough man on managers who don't win.

The Cleveland Club's white-haired president walked into the dressing room last night and surprised the Indians with the word that Lou—barely 25 years old—had been signed to lead them through the 1945 season.

Players cheered and Boudreau, who has the tribe scrapping with Boston for second place despite the loss of Pitcher Bob Feller, responded:

"Naturally I'm happy, but I want you fellows to know that I'm not fooling myself. It's you who have done the job for me."

Although the present contract carried through 1943, Bradley offered no explanation why a new three-year document was signed for 1943 through 1945. He also made no mention of a salary increase, but it was presumed he had given his playing shortstop more than the $25,000 annually believed paid now.

Only after a week of hesitation last year did Bradley appoint Boudreau the Indians' 15th pilot since the club joined the American League in 1901. Lou made a special trip to Cleveland to ask for the job, vacated by elevation of Roger Peckinpaugh to the No. 1 front office post. Bradley said no.

"I still think I'm the man for the job," Lou declared as he walked out the door.

Reds Dropped To 4th Place By Bucs, 3-1

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—(AP)—

Out of third place but fairly safe in fourth, the Cincinnati Reds take on the Pittsburgh Pirates again tonight with a hope that somebody will get a hit when there's a man in scoring position.

Bucky Walters or Johnny Vander Meer for the Reds and Truett Sewell for the Pirates are the announced pitchers.

The Pirates knocked the Reds loose from the third spot, which they had held for weeks, with a 3-1 trimming yesterday. Ival Goodman got a double for the Reds and Eric Tipton and Bert Haas hit triples, but Bert was the only to score, Gee Walker singling behind him in the fifth. Tipton watched three mates fizzle.

The Pirates did all their scoring in the fifth on Pete Coscarart's single, Eddie Joost's fumble of a roller, and Gene Thompson's late throw on a bunt, and singles by Buck Geary and Bob Elliott.

League Leaders So Far Out In Front Fans Look for Thrills Below Them

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(By The Associated Press)

With the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers monopolizing the major league pennant races, fans who like their baseball close must be getting an occasional thrill these days out of the way the other first division clubs are scrapping for the consolation prizes.

The Cleveland Indians yesterday battled the Detroit Tigers for 14 innings without a score on either side. While the Tribe missed a chance to retake second place in the American League, the deadlock produced the nearest thing to a no-hit game in the current campaign.

After playing to a standoff in the twilight half of a double-header, the two teams came back under the lights and Detroit triumphed, 3-2.

Thus the Boston Red Sox, who stopped the Yankees 3-2 in an 11-inning daylight tilt, retained possession of second place at least for another day.

At the same time, the New York Giants recaptured third place in the National League from Cincinnati by beating the Boston Braves, 6-4, while the Reds were going down before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1.

At Cleveland, Lefty Al Milnar of the Indians bid seriously for the first no-hitter since Lon Warneke turned the trick for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Cincinnati Reds last Aug. 30, and nearly made it.

There were two out in the ninth inning when Roger Cramer singled for the first blow off Milnar. But the Indians also were held scoreless by Tommy Bridges, although he yielded nine hits. The only other blow off Milnar in the five extra frames was a single by Rudy York in the 13th.

At the end of 14 innings, the game was halted by darkness and an American League rule that won't permit daylight contests to finish under lights. It went into the books as a scoreless tie, to be played today as part of a doubleheader.

Dizzy Trout pitched the Tigers to victory in the second game, limiting the Tribe to seven hits while his mates pounded Mel Harder and Harry Eisenstat for a dozen blows.

All this happened within a few hours after Lou Boudreau signed a new contract to manage the Indians for three more years.

Detroit's victory enabled the Tigers to regain fifth place, with the help of the St. Louis Browns, who snapped a nine-game winning streak for the Chicago White Sox. Denny Galehouse pitched the Browns to a 9-2 triumph, tossing a four-hitter at the White Sox which pushed them back to sixth place.

In another night affair, the Washington Senators downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-1.

RED BIRDS AND BLUES AGAIN IN DEADLOCK AT TOP OF AA SCRAMBLE

(By The Associated Press)

The amazing American Association pennant race was in another first place deadlock today, with Kansas City and Columbus tied for the top and the ambitious Toledo Mudhens just three games behind.

Between the leaders and the Mudhens stand Milwaukee and Minneapolis. But last night Toledo drove within one game of Minneapolis by whipping the Millers in a double header, 6-5 and 10-0, and dropping them to fourth place behind Milwaukee.

Columbus gained a first place tie with Kansas City last night by spanking last-place St. Paul, 8-0 as the Blues lost to Louisville, 5 to 3. Columbus won behind Harry Brecheen, who scattered four hits for his sixth shutout and his 16th win of the year.

Milwaukee advanced within a game of first place with a double victory over Indianapolis. Al Falzone's wildness helped Milwaukee take the opener, 6-1. In the second the Brewers pounded Elton Hogsett for 16 hits to win, 9-2.

How to get a lot more miles from every gallon of gasoline

IT'S REALLY PRETTY SIMPLE to squeeze extra mileage out of your gasoline. All it takes is a little extra care in your driving—a few regular attentions to your car. For details, see below.

Even if you only do a few of these things you'll notice a big improvement. And if you do all of them—and keep doing them—you'll likely find you're able to go just as far on 3 or 4 gallons as you now go on 5!

GET UP TO 10% more miles-per-gallon by such a simple thing as keeping spark plugs clean! Dirty, worn plugs can easily waste as much as 1 gallon out of every 10.

UNCLOG THE PORES of your air filter. A dirty air filter acts as a choke—wastes a whole lot of gas. Should be cleaned every 1,000 to 2,000 miles.

ELIMINATE THE EXTRA DRAG that needless friction puts on your car's motor. Chassis lubrication and oil changes every 1,000 miles will cut away that friction "anchor."

WRITE YOUR OWN TICKET on the biggest single gas-saver of all—slower driving! At 50 you use almost 25% more gas per mile than at 30—at 60, almost 50% more! The slower you drive the more you save—it's up to you.

DON'T BE A "COWBOY." Starting like a flash and stopping "on a dime" is fun—sure—but, man, how it eats up the gas! Take it easy and you'll get a lot more miles of useful driving.

STEADY DOES IT. "Pumping" the accelerator—constant speeding up and slowing down—is like using a fire hose to fill a thimble. You lose more than you use!

TESTED FOR ACCURACY. SOHIO free air towers are regularly tested and accurately adjusted to assure you correct inflation. Come to SOHIO for your weekly check-up.

ONCE EVERY WEEK, sure, check your tires and keep them at the recommended pressure. Driving on soft tires is like driving through mud—takes extra power and wastes gas!

Use Ohio's Long-Mileage favorite!...

SOHIO's experienced servicemen, up-to-the-minute equipment and high-quality products can help you get better performance and mileage from your car. Use them regularly—start today!

WAR DEVELOPMENTS
All the signs point to some dramatic development in this war. What it will be, or where, or upon whose initiative, only a very few persons know—and perhaps they are not quite certain.

It could be the collapse of the sturdy Russian defense. Undoubtedly Hitler is pouring every possible ounce of his strength into an effort to break the Red army now. He may succeed. But in all probability he will not, altho he is doing tremendous damage.

More probably, the sensation will be the opening of a second front by either the Anglo-American alliance or the Japanese. Nobody should be too greatly surprised if the two came almost simultaneously—the United Nations trying to distract Hitler from his Russian adventure, while Japan, in Siberia, attempts to distract the Reds from Hitler.

Over whatever the Japanese may do our control is limited. Moreover, President Roosevelt has promised that we shall wage a war of offensive. Therefore it is up to us to decide, principally, where we are going to hit Hitler, and how.

Laymen in a democracy are entitled to their opinions. But lay opinions in the matter of second front strategy are not worth the breath it takes to expound them. Only the experts should determine, on the basis of secret information withheld from the public, when we are ready to strike, and where, and how.

Conceding that probably we shall open a second front soon, there is one point on which the public should keep very clear.

If our second front is in the air—if it is a day-by-day series of devastating raids upon the Reich's industrial center and transportation arteries—then in launching it we shall not have burned all our bridges behind us.

We can wage such warfare assured that even if it should prove less conclusive than we hope, we shall have done more damage to Germany than to ourselves.

A second land front can not be opened in Europe, however pressing Russia's emergency, unless we are prepared to gamble our national existence upon that throw of the dice.

The losses we must suffer, landing an army in Europe and attempting to supply it, will be so unbearable that they could not be repeated.

If such an attempt is made and it fails, we might lose the war for keeps, right there.

FUTURE MILITARY TRAINING

The description applied to Congressman Wadsworth's recent proposal, "permanent draft," is unfortunate, but the idea behind it is sound. It is the sort of thing that should be enacted now, while we are awake to past errors, and not be left until the war is over and we

Washington at a Glance By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Wartime prohibition of new mechanical gadgets, for household and business purposes, wouldn't be so bad if it were possible to keep the old ones in working order. The trouble is that the last generation of junk has begun to fall into disrepair and the skill of craftsmanship to fix it is lacking, being either in uniform or at work in arms factories.

Illustratively, suppose your typewriter gets out of kilter. You'll be lucky if, for love or money, you can find a guy who's competent to tinker with it.

Toilet facilities are turning ugly. Managers of big office buildings and hotels are half bughouse on the subject. A lot of elevators have started balking. Now and then a street railway switch refuses to function and a carload of passengers are inconvenienced to say the least.

Automobiles aren't so much of a problem, because their owners can't get the gas to run them. Without fuel or tires an auto is no serious peril. It's lucky for pedestrians that such is the case, for traffic lights are becoming undependable, due to the scarcity of boys who understand their operations.

I surmise that Washington is the worst, in all these respects, of any center in the country.

since it is by far the most congested. Our huge industrial cities must have enlarged their populations enormously also, but they were big to begin with. The capital, comparatively, was a smallish burg, approximately doubled per capita inside a year or thereabouts. It makes a town ache to swell that fast.

In normal times a loyal Washingtonian would feel somewhat smug at the news of New York City being in the midst of a depression, while his own pet municipality is booming. He doesn't get that sensation now, though. He's too uncomfortable; he's cramped so.

New York's Case

Manhattan, it appears, never was industrial, except as a headquarters for dressmaking, millinery, gents' furnishings goods, and banking. Dressmaking, millinery and gents' furnishings are having a rough time of it today, naturally. Retailing, generally, has run into trying times.

And big industry, as previously remarked, New York never did have much of it. It wasn't a suitable place for it, its surface being so fully occupied.

Then, as for banking? The enormous industrial towns have drained most of that Washington isn't one of them. But it's the focus.

Strange as it may seem, for several years I've had a small Washington bank account. I used to be able to go into my favorite loan and trust company, make my modest deposit and sneak out in two or three minutes.

A Banking Boom

Today I fall in line with dozens of customers, stretching clear out into E street. As an old acquaintance, the teller treats me politely. I have to take a forenoon off, though, to be attended to. Washington's finance is just suffocating; Manhattan's is gasping.

Now, suppose you, a Washingtonian, want a hired man of some sort?

Maybe you want him only to clear your yard. Maybe he's just a kid to deliver your newspaper.

Either you can't get him at all, or, if you can, he is so independent that he, not you, is boss. His nominal superior can't reprimand him; either, if you complain about it, he'll tell you superior to "go chase himself."

It'll be a pleasure to see some of these lads inducted under orders.

Maybe that'll teach 'em

Flashes of Life

PADUCAH, Ky.—E. Smith, tourist camp operator, found crumbs on the lawn almost as good as bread on the water. He had been feeding crumbs to a certain robin daily, he reported, and one day the robin showed up at Smith's back door with a dollar bill in its beak, dropped the bill and fluttered off again.

PHILADELPHIA—A masher grabbed a 34-year-old woman's arm, then staring down at the muzzle of a pistol, heard her bark: "I'll blow your head off."

He hollered for help. The police arrested him for assault and battery; her for carrying a pistol without a permit even though there weren't any bullets in it.

KANSAS CITY—Mrs. Eleanore Collidge Walton, head of the city's film censor board, ordered deletion of 30 feet of film in a movie which showed native girls doing an energetic hula dance.

The theater manager called her and protested. "Mrs. Walton those hula dancers only shake a little."

"That's right," was her laconic reply. "They shake a little too much."

Today's Horoscope

Those having birthdays today are rather uneven in temperament, but have sincerity, rich self-confidence, and the ability to plan and execute their plans with precision. They should curb their rash impulses. They are fond of travel. Provided they do nothing rash in the next year some good fortune will come their way. Love and domestic affairs should be fairly happy, but they should avoid quarrels. Born on this date a child will be somewhat proud, austere, reserved and easily offended. A more tolerant outlook should be cultivated to avoid unnecessary enmity.

have been hit by the inevitable wave of revolution against everything military.

Mr. Wadsworth proposes that all American youths be given military training for a year, and then placed for five years in an organized reserve. Teaching a million youngsters, between 18 and 21, each year, this would give a five-million-man nucleus ready for call in any future emergency. This is more than we have been able to get into service in a year and a half since the current need for a real army became obvious.

We shouldn't have needed this war to teach us how dangerous it is for a rich nation to scorn all protective measures. The fact that Chief of Staff Marshall is behind the Wadsworth proposal suggests that we may have learned our lesson.

How Weather Changes Affect Life and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE PHYSICIANS of ancient days of Greece and Egypt and Rome paid great attention to the effect of weather and climate on human life and health. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, left a work on "Air, Waters and Places."

All this lore was neglected by the modern physician after he became intellectually proud with his knowledge of bacteriology and body chemistry. It bids fair to have a renaissance with the patient observations and writings of two outstanding American scholars, Dr. William F. Petersen, of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, and Dr. Clarence A. Mills, Professor of Experimental Medicine at the University of Cincinnati.

Of Interest in America

North America should be particularly interested in weather. Except for the great Asiatic land mass, America has more weather than any place else on earth. Not only is the annual variation in temperature over most of its surface between 20 degrees below zero on some winter days to 110 or more degrees above zero during some summer days, but the number of storms and storm tracks brought about at the interfaces of polar air masses and tropical air masses make sudden change in temperature, humidity and barometric pressure frequent experiences.

Weather changes create so many effects on human bodily status that they are hard to classify. Hot weather reduces blood pressure and cold spells raise it. Dr. Petersen, in a recent article, tells an interesting story of a young woman with a very changeable or labile vasomotor system who regularly had fainting attacks in the wake of cold storms.

The fainting did not occur with the cold period, but afterwards when the warm or hot reaction came on; then her blood pressure became so low that any unusual exertion would bring on a fainting spell. In an equable climate she would have become comfortable, but even in her normal environment the administration of epinephrine, which raised blood pressure, controlled the attacks.

The formula for the general body reaction to sudden cold is "A. R. S." (anoxia, reduction, sugar increase). Cold closes the superficial blood vessels, raising blood pressure and it rearranges the endocrine secretions, causing a feeling of stimulation and actually affecting sugar metabolism.

Reaction to Heat

The reaction to heat is "C. O. V." (catabolism, oxidation, vasodilatation). The superficial blood vessels dilate, the blood increases in acidity, the basal metabolism is increased, the potassium-calcium ratio is diminished, dehydration occurs with a consequent feeling of let-downness and fatigue.

These are the temporary reactions to sharp changes. After a hot or cold spell is established, the body adjusts itself and discomfort disappears.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. T.: Please let me know what causes one's toenails to fall off.

Answer: Probably ringworm infection.

J. P. G.:—Is there a cure or remedy that will relieve the spells of bronchial asthma? Is there a difference between bronchial asthma and chronic bronchitis?

Answer: Bronchial asthma is usually due to sensitivity (allergy) to plant pollens, sometimes to animals—especially rabbits and cats and horses—or to certain foods or house dust. If you can find out what you are sensitive to and eliminate it, your asthma will be improved. Sometimes the asthma is due to chronic infection from sinus disease. Chronic bronchitis often produces wheezing like asthmatic wheezing, but the two conditions are not essentially alike.

Mark's Wife
by MARIE BLIZARD
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
BARBARA WISTER, former actress, finds herself a widow at 27, when her husband, MARK, a newspaperman-turned-author, dies in South Wintridge, the small town in which they had taken up residence. Because they and the townspeople had practically nothing in common, there has been only one person sympathetic with her. He is DR. TONY BRADSHAW, young physician of the town.

MISS ADDIE BRADSHAW, Tony's aunt, keeps house for him, and takes care of his office.

YESTERDAY, Miss Addie relates to Tony how Tom Kilcran, operator of the big mill in town, came into his wealth.

CHAPTER FIVE
THE STACCATO echo of a back-firing truck awakened Barbara Wister with an abruptness so startling that it was as if she had no mind, no memory, no power to think. She was awake, that was all. Her body, rested by the sedative, was deliciously light under the covers, the pillow incredibly soft beneath her head. Before her mind cleared into consciousness, something told her she wanted to prolong that moment forever, and fast upon the heels of that awareness was the knowledge of the struggle that lay ahead of her.

Then, because she was not quite awake, something else brought her bold upright and blindly reaching for her robe. Mark, Mark. She must go to Mark.

Then she remembered that Mark was dead. Mark's funeral was over. One job was done. Another was beginning. Today.

She was sharply awake then, already feeling the urgent hand of Time at her shoulder, hearing its voice telling her that she had no months, nor weeks, nor yet days to plan, to hope for help. What was to be done was to be done solely by her.

For perhaps the only time in her life, Barbara Wister turned away from the thing she knew she had to do. A feeling of helplessness and loneliness and longing for the thing she'd never had, someone close and loving, welled up in her. Slow tears trickled down her cheeks. These were different tears from those she had wept for Mark. These were for the mother she couldn't remember, for herself because there was no one anywhere that she knew to whom she could go, as Sonny could go to her, and know because someone loved her that all would be well. It was aching, desolate loneliness.

There were the men friends of their old life in New York, Mark's associates. There wasn't another woman, no friend from the past or present to whom she could say, "What am I to do? How can I make a living for Sonny and myself?"

Her eyes drifted to the table beside her bed and she saw the soup bowl that Tony Bradshaw had brought her, and as if the sight had been strengthening, she sniffed, dried her tears and got up to dress.

When she was dressed she saw that it wasn't quite seven, as yet too early to waken her sleeping child. She went in and looked at him, sitting beside his small white bed, seeing him through the years that were coming.

His babyhood was nearly over. School was ahead of him. All sorts of things darted into her mind, funny little pictures. Sonny wanting a baseball glove. Sonny losing his first teeth, needing to have the new ones straightened. Sonny faced with the inevitable illnesses of childhood, the natural wants of adolescence, clothes, pocket money. High school, preparation for a good life.

She knelt beside his bed and, burying her face in her hands, she prayed that strength and light would come to her, and all the time she thought, "What becomes of a woman and her child when she cannot provide for him?"

Tucking the blanket under his chin, she thought, "If I were alone, I could go back to the city and find work, but I can't take him away from here. I KNOW his best for him to be here."

She saw herself in the mirror in the door. She had put on the black

She prayed that strength and light would come to her.

dress she'd worn the night before, but now, refreshed by the first good sleep she'd had in many days, even the dreariness of mourning black could not dwarf her look of vitality.

"I could marry again," she said half aloud. "I could take care of Sonny that way."

Then she saw herself shudder in the mirror. A woman should not marry for any reason but love. She had married for loneliness and it had been a good enough marriage. "But not what it could have been, a small voice said."

Things that she had put away from her when she became Mark's wife pushed themselves into the foreground of her mind, the things she had dreamed of in her romantic and brief girlhood, things that a woman who was still young knew might yet be for her.

But Barbara Wister knew they were not to be for her unless she went out into the world and looked for them. Perhaps she might have, had it not been for Sonny. But Sonny's life and future were her whole world now and she wanted no lonely cities, no lack of ties for him. Fiercely she wanted him to stay right where he was and grow up to be a man like Tony Bradshaw.

She found herself saying it, "I want him to be like Tony."

When she went into the living room, it was as if his presence was still there, giving her courage, strength, and she went to the desk and looked at the column of figures she had added up the night before. Grocer's bill, the appalling total of items from the drug store, the money she owed the garage. Not big bills to a woman who knew that she would have a little money every week.

Barbara thumbed them hurriedly. There was one from the Bon Ton store for the chintz she'd bought to curtain the front bedroom. She wouldn't need that now.

The one thing she needed—and there it was again—was work. Work for women in South Wintridge was scarce. Something in an office, something in a store was all she could hope for, unless she could find some means of making work for herself.

She couldn't sew. She couldn't do any of the wonderful things self-reliant women were supposed to be able to do. But she could look in the morning newspaper which was on her porch. She didn't ever remember seeing advertisements headed "Help Wanted, Female," but, she hoped, bending to pick up the paper, that was because she hadn't needed to look for them before.

She turned the pages with nervous haste and ran her eyes down the single column. There was nothing to be hoped for there. No female help was needed in South Wintridge. There were a few items headed "Business Opportunities," and "Radio Repair," and "Houses for Sale." Then she saw one small item under the heading, "Rooms." It seemed to her then that a feeble ray of sunshine broke from the overcast sky of her mind.

That big, unused front room! She could rent that for something. It wouldn't be much. But she had nothing. It would be a beginning. When the baker's cart stopped before her door she bought some little sugared cakes that Sonny liked, and she did it the way a woman buys an extravagant hat because she feels the future will be brighter.

Mr. Stannard wrapped the cakes, putting in an extra cookie or two, and said, "The Kilcran ladies came home last night."

Barbara counted out her coins. "That's nice," she said. "Where do they live?"

Mr. Stannard's mouth dropped to display his lower bridge. "You bit around here this long, Mrs. Wister, and you don't know the mansion?"

"Oh, that," Barbara said. "The big house on the hill with the copper roof? Sometimes I can see it catching the sunlight."

She stood on the porch looking down at and then up to the west. She said, "It makes a perfect triangle. The village makes one point, the mansion another, and my house the peak."

"A triangle, eh?" Mr. Stannard repeated, giving her an odd look. "Guess I ain't got much time to think of them funny ideas myself."

"It doesn't mean anything," Barbara said, pocketing her change. It was such a small thing, not worth mentioning. The design had just popped into her mind one night—the towering mansion on her left, Tony's house in the village on her right, and herself, or her house, in the middle.

Mr. Stannard climbed back into his cart and went off muttering, "A triangle? Now, who'd of thought of that? Must be like the missus says. She must be kinda queer."

It was a long time before the symbol of that triangle was to mean anything to her.

Beautiful Mexican Party Given Members of Wise Kiotion Guild Tuesday

One of the most delightful meetings of the Wise Kiotion Guild of the First Baptist Church was held on Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Richard McLean, Mrs. Myers Kimmey and Mrs. Paul Gault combined hospitalities to entertain with a Mexican Fiesta at the home of Mrs. McLean on Leesburg Avenue.

The large backyard of the home was an appropriate place for the meeting, and had been gaily decorated with bright colored Mexican symbols.

The three hostesses welcomed their guests in brilliant Mexican costumes, and each member was similarly attired, making a beautiful scene.

Gathering in a circle on the lawn, a merry party was enjoyed, with perfect plans and pleasures provided to make it a complete success. Vendors appeared with Mexican wares of pottery, shells, baskets and other knick-knacks, symbols of our southern neighbor. The guests purchased the wares with "money," with buttons used. The entire collection was turned in to the White Cross Fund.

Outstanding among the vendors' wares, were the gorgeous floral bouquets of midsummer flowers, with the rarest of blooms arranged in beautiful clusters.

Mexican games and songs were done, with a jolly time had during the early summer evening.

Taking the guests into the home, which was lovely in its profusion of choicest midsummer blooms, a business meeting was conducted by the vice president, Miss Lorie Merritt.

Plans were made for an outing at the home of Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, on the Columbus Road, for Sunday evening, August 23. This will be a picnic supper.

The study book was in charge of Mrs. Kenneth Burnett, and was on Burma. Miss Jean McCoy assisted in this.

Mrs. Porter Campbell had the devotional period which was most appropriate at this time.

At the close of the evening the gracious hostesses served most tempting and delicious refreshments suggestive of Old Mexico.

Golf-Luncheon

Although exceptionally popular during the past summers, Wednesday morning was the first morning golf game for the ladies of the Washington Country Club.

Beginning at nine o'clock, eighteen holes of golf were gaily played before the noon hour and the heat of the day.

The vigorous exercise and the cool morning air whetted the appetites for the particularly delicious luncheon served by the club hostess, Mrs. Hazel Devins, at the noon hour.

Eleven golfers were present for the affair promoted by Mrs. Marvin Thornburg and Mrs. Ronald Cornwell. With these two were Miss Edith Davids, Miss Linda Paxson, Mrs. Condon Campbell, Miss Helen Simons, Miss Dorothy Fedigan, Mrs. Ormond Dewey, Mrs. Sam Parrett, Mrs. Larry DuPre, and Mrs. Frank Boso.

Mrs. Earl Barnett Includes Cousins For Pretty Party

Mrs. Earl Barnett, whose entertaining is always perfect and most delightful, added a most enjoyable party to her quota Tuesday, when she included a number of the members of the Junk family, for a luncheon and get-together at her attractive home at Cedar Hurst.

The cottage, so lovely in its interior and exterior decorations, was most attractive with its bouquets of summer flowers.

The dining table was a picture of beauty with its perfect appointments, with the delicious luncheon courses adding to its beauty.

Informal visiting, with the 'cousins' all enjoying the gay get-together which are too infrequent meetings, was gaily enjoyed during the afternoon.

The beauty and loveliness of the Cedar Hurst grounds added to the pleasure.

Mrs. G. C. Kidner was a cordial hostess to the ladies of the Tuesday Kensington Club, and included two former members, Mrs. M. E. Hitchcock, of Athens, and Mrs. Helen Elliott, and Mrs. Grace Goodwin as guests with the members.

The home was lovely with its many beautiful arrangements of flowers from the garden of the hostess and from those of friends. A large bowl of brilliant-colored ruffled zinnias were greatly admired in the living room.

A dessert course was served at the beginning of the party, and was particularly delicious.

Needlework was done during the afternoon, and an old-fashioned visiting party enjoyed.

The guests lingered until a late hour, happy to be with the two former members and the other popular guests of the day.

CONVOY BATTLE RAGES IN MEDITERRANEAN AND BRITISH CARRIER IS SUNK

iterranean but a large part of the 22,600-ton warship's crew has been saved, the Admiralty announced today.

A German broadcast heard here indicated the Eagle went down at the start of a battle which may be continuing between a British convoy and Axis submarines and warplanes.

The broadcast, quoting DNB, said a British "capital convoy," escorted by the bulk of the Mediterranean fleet, had been engaged in the western Mediterranean since last evening.

The original German report said the Eagle was sunk at midday.

Adding to the scope of the reported action, the Italian high command said that one of its submarines scored two torpedo hits at dawn yesterday on "a large warship of unascertained type, strongly escorted."

The Admiralty said at least one enemy submarine operating in the same area as the old carrier already had been sunk, indicating that the Eagle went down fighting.

German broadcasts last night said four torpedo hits sent her to the bottom in the western Mediterranean.

WAR IN ATLANTIC
A large-scale offensive by German surface and submarine raiders against the heavy and increasingly important Allied merchant traffic in the South Atlantic was predicted today by informed British naval sources.

Reports from neutral and Axis sources in the last 24 hours indicated, it was said, that the attacks already had started.

These sources cited Rio de Janeiro's receipt of SOS messages reporting an enemy surface raider 1,000 miles off the Brazilian coast and the German high command's claim of yesterday that 45,231 tons of shipping bound for Egypt had been sunk recently by German submarines off the American and West African coasts.

PRE-WAR VIEWS IGNORED BY VOTERS IN 4 STATES IN SELECTING CANDIDATES

tive Harry B. Coffee, campaigned against on his congressional record prior to the war, lost the Democratic senate nomination to Foster May, Omaha radio announcer.

The Republican nomination to the senate seat now held by George W. Norris, veteran independent, was won by Kenneth S. Wherry, Republican midwest director. Norris did not compete in the primary but his friends had predicted he would enter the general election again as an independent.

Meanwhile, selection of delegates to New York State's Democratic convention, Aug. 19, officially started the battle for nomination pledges for Senator James M. Mead and State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., in a test of presidential influence of selection of the party's nominee for governor.

Mead carries the endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt and Bennett is supported by James A. Farley, state party chairman and the President's former campaign manager.

Senator John Thomas of Idaho, also labelled a non-supporter of administration measures before the war, accumulated a wide lead for Republican renomination.

The Arkansas run-off primary gave former Representative John L. McClellan the Democratic nomination for senator over Attorney General Jack Holt.
